

Instructor: ..... Date: .....

Learner: ..... Regional Branch: .....

Program: ..... Center: .....

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

The world's greatest tenor!

Learning Outcome

Identify and describe issues relating to money, in written and spoken situations according to work and social contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about fame and work.
- I can talk about what was done.
- I can speculate about the past.

Ask your partner:

- What are the pros and cons of being famous?
- Do you think celebrities have a responsibility to do charity work? Why or why not?

Let's Explore!

Luciano Pavarotti:* Beyond Stardom

* You use colons to introduce items, like a list or a topic.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

At the height of his stardom, Luciano Pavarotti was regarded as one of the foremost talents in the musical world. He was acclaimed for the beauty of his voice, and many believe that he may have been the preeminent tenor of his generation.

Pavarotti was brought up in rural Italy by his working-class parents (his father was a baker and his mother a factory worker). His father was also an amateur musician, and it was suggested that he could have become a successful tenor in his own right. The whole family was crowded into a small, two-bedroom apartment. His frugal upbringing must have influenced the generosity he displayed in his later years.

For all of his natural talent, Pavarotti was not an overnight sensation. He took vocal lessons for seven years, and he thought seriously about abandoning music to become a teacher or goalkeeper. Imagine, the great Pavarotti might have become a professional footballer! He began his musical career in 1961, and within a decade he had become a household name. In his later years, Pavarotti was known as a philanthropist. He was lauded for his humanitarian efforts in raising money for the United Nations following conflicts in Guatemala, Kosovo, Iraq, and Bosnia. He also participated in benefit concerts for victims of earthquakes and land mines.

Let's Practice!

Speculating about Pavarotti's past.

Instructions: Use the words from the box to correctly complete the sentence.

Word Bank

Might this have been / may have been / could have become / might have become / must have influenced

1. He _____ the preeminent tenor of his generation.
2. He _____ a successful tenor in his own right.
3. His frugal upbringing _____ the generosity he displayed in his later years.
4. Imagine, the great Pavarotti _____ a professional footballer.
5. _____ the reason he worked so hard?

Let's Practice!

What was said about Pavarotti? And by whom? When you are replacing the object (person) in a sentence with a pronoun, you use the word "whom". When you are replacing the subject in a sentence, you use the word "who".

Instructions: Read the clues. Select the correct box in the table. There is only one answer per sentence.

|                                                                                        | Active sentence | Passive sentence with an agent ("doer") | Passive sentence without an agent ("doer") |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------|-----------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| 1. Luciano Pavarotti was regarded as one of the foremost talents in the musical world. |                 |                                         |                                            |
| 2. He was acclaimed for the beauty of his voice.                                       |                 |                                         |                                            |
| 3. Pavarotti was brought up in rural Italy by his working-class parents.               |                 |                                         |                                            |
| 4. He took vocal lessons for seven years.                                              |                 |                                         |                                            |
| 5. He was lauded for his humanitarian efforts.                                         |                 |                                         |                                            |

Extension Activity

Create your own humanitarian organization. Explain the goal of your charity, and try to convince your partner to make a donation.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Create a title for your organization.
- Write a mission statement.
- Outline four ways in which your organization will help people.
- Present your idea to a partner and try to get a donation!

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I create a humanitarian organization.

☐ ☐

I write a mission statement.

☐ ☐

I expand on my mission statement with specific examples.

☐ ☐

I present my organization to a partner.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- stardom (noun): the state of being famous e.g. At the height of his stardom, Luciano Pavarotti was known throughout the world.
- foremost (adjective): the most prominent in rank; the best e.g. Luciano Pavarotti was regarded as one of the foremost talents in the music world.
- preeminent (adjective): more important or better than others
e.g. Many believe that he may have been the preeminent tenor of his generation.
- to laud (verb): to praise
e.g. He was lauded for his humanitarian efforts.
- overnight sensation (expression): someone who becomes famous very quickly e.g. For all of his natural talent, Pavarotti was not an overnight sensation.
- household name (expression): a person who is well known by the public e.g. He began his musical career in 1961, and within a decade he had become a household name.
- working-class (adjective): describing those who usually work with their hands and are paid by the hour e.g. Pavarotti was brought up in rural Italy by his working-class parents (his father was a baker and his mother a factory worker).
- baker (noun): a person who makes bread and cakes
e.g. His father was a baker so he always had fresh bread at home.
- philanthropist (noun): a person who helps the poor, often by giving them money
e.g. In his later years, Pavarotti was known as a philanthropist.
- humanitarian (adjective): attempting to improve human welfare or reduce suffering e.g. He was lauded for his humanitarian efforts in raising money for the United Nations.

Learning Points

The Simple Past Passive

You use an active structure when you want the 'doer' of the action to be the subject.
You use a passive structure when you want the 'receiver' of the action to be the subject.

Active sentence = People (subject) regarded Luciano Pavarotti (object) as one of the foremost talents in the music world.

Passive sentence = Luciano Pavarotti (subject) was regarded as one of the foremost talents in the music world (by people = agent).

It is not necessary to mention the object in a passive sentence.

You often choose the passive form when you want to talk about an action but are not so interested in saying who or what does/did it. Passives without agents (the doers) are common in biographies.

You make the passive form of a verb by using tenses of the be verb followed by the past participle.

This is the form of the Simple Past passive:

subject + was/were + past participle

He was acclaimed for the beauty of his voice.

Examples:

- Pavarotti was brought up in rural Italy by his working-class parents (his father was a baker and his mother a factory worker).
- His father was also an amateur musician, and it was suggested that he could have become a successful tenor in his own right.
- The whole family was crowded into a small, two-bedroom apartment.
- In his later years, Pavarotti was known as a philanthropist.
- He was lauded for his humanitarian efforts in raising money for the United Nations following conflicts in Guatemala, Kosovo, Iraq, and Bosnia.

Learning Points

Speculation About the Past

You can use modals to talk about degrees of certainty and speculate about things in the past.

You use them to describe what is definite, probable, possible, or impossible from the speaker's point of view.

You can use must, may, might, and could to describe degrees of certainty.

You can use modals with the Present Perfect to talk about the possibility of a past event that is not clear in the present context.

Example:

He was acclaimed for the beauty of his voice, and many believe that he may have been the preeminent tenor of his generation.

Look at the chart for the meanings of modals when speculating about the past:

| Modal Phrase                         | Meaning            |
|--------------------------------------|--------------------|
| Must have                            | It is very likely. |
| May haveMight haveCould have | It is possible.    |

- May have has a slightly stronger meaning than might have or could have.
- You can add not to make a negative speculation: It may not have been true.

Examples:

- His frugal upbringing must have influenced the generosity he displayed in his later years.
- His father was also an amateur musician, and it was suggested that he could have become a successful tenor in his own right.
- Many believe that he may have been the preeminent tenor of his generation.
- Imagine, the great Pavarotti might have become a professional footballer!

