

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

From musical charity to musical therapy!

Learning Outcome

Identify and describe jobs and careers in social contexts appropriate for the interlocutor.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about fame and work.
- I can talk about what has been happening or what has been done.
- I can talk about impressions.

Ask your partner:

- What types of music do you listen to when you're angry, stressed, or feeling down?
- In what ways do you think music could be used to heal?

Let's Explore!

It's an exciting new field!

* A "field" is a particular area of work or study.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

It has been said that music has a healing effect. On a large scale, this has been demonstrated by renowned musicians such as Luciano Pavarotti, David Bowie, and Bono. They came together in the '90s to perform several concerts for War Child, a non-governmental organization (NGO). Although the main focus of these humanitarian efforts was to raise money for those in need, they also set an example for how music can be used to relieve pain, and some feel as though it can even promote happiness in those who suffer. Nowadays, healing with music is being implemented in a more personal manner, through the use of music therapy. It must be catching on, because centers have been constructed around the world, and music therapy programs are constantly being added to university course lists. Music therapists work alongside pediatricians and other health professionals to ease pain and encourage recovery in patients. They focus on using musical expression to improve motor skills, social skills and even cognitive functioning. The field of music therapy has been growing steadily since the '90s. In the past, some health professionals were skeptical, but presently it seems more and more patients are being referred to music therapists by physicians, psychologists, and occupational therapists. This exciting new career path is being chosen by increasing numbers of music lovers who wish to share their passion with those who need it most.

Let's Practice!

What is being done?

Instructions: Underline the mistakes in the sentences. Write the sentences correctly.

1. Nowadays, healing with music is being implement in a more personal matter.

2. Music therapy programs are constantly be added to university course lists.

3. More and more patients is being referred to music therapists.

4. This exciting new career path is being choose by increasing numbers of music lovers.

Let's Practice!

Let's talk about music!

Instructions: Use the words from the box to correctly complete the sentences. Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

Word Bank

pediatricians / renowned / Physicians / non-governmental organizations / career path

1. Pavarotti, Bowie and Bono are _____ musicians.
2. They have chosen this exciting new _____.
3. Often, _____ refer patients to music therapists.
4. Music therapists work alongside _____ and other health professionals.
5. They came together in the '90s to perform several concerts for War Child, a _____.

Extension Activity

Brainstorm a list of 10 jobs. Then, try to think of at least one way in which music could be used in that field. E.g. Professional athletes could listen to up-tempo music while training.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Come up with a list of ten different jobs.
- Beside each one, write a sentence explaining how music could be implemented in that profession.
- Present your list to a partner, and discuss the pros and cons of each.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I brainstorm ten different types of jobs.

☐ ☐

I explain how music can be used in each job.

☐ ☐

I share my ideas with a partner.

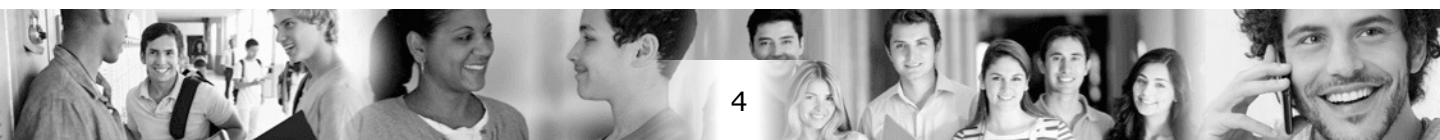

☐ ☐

I discuss the pros and cons of each suggestion.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- renowned (adjective): known by many people; famous e.g. This has been demonstrated by renowned musicians such as Luciano Pavarotti and David Bowie.
- non-governmental organization (noun): an organization that is not for profit and not part of a government e.g. They came together in the '90s to perform several concerts for War Child, a non-governmental organization (NGO).
- music therapist (noun): a therapist who uses music to promote healing
e.g. Music therapists work alongside pediatricians and other health professionals to ease pain and encourage recovery in patients.
- career path (noun): the way you progress in your work, within a job or a series of jobs
e.g. This exciting new career path is being chosen by increasing numbers of music lovers.
- physician (noun): a medical doctor
e.g. More patients are being referred to music therapists by physicians.
- psychologist (noun): someone who studies the human mind
e.g. The psychologist asked her a series of detailed questions.
- occupational therapist (noun): someone who promotes recovery by encouraging the activities used in daily life
e.g. He was referred to an occupational therapist because of his back problems.
- pediatrician (noun): a doctor who specializes in treating children
e.g. After the checkup, the pediatrician gave the child a lollipop.

Learning Points

The Passive: The Present Continuous and Present Perfect Tenses

You use the Present Continuous to talk about an action that is happening at the time of speaking. The action or event is in progress.

Universities are adding music therapy programs to their course lists.

You use the Present Perfect to talk about a finished action or event with present consequences. There is a connection between what happened in the past and the present.

People have said that music has a healing effect.

You often choose the passive form when you want to talk about an action but are not so interested in saying who or what does/did it. Passives without agents (the doers) are common in academic and scientific writing.

Look at the chart below for the structure of the passive voice.

Name	Structure	Example
Present Continuous	am/are/is + being + past participle	Healing with music is being implemented in a more personal manner.
Present Perfect	have/has + been + past participle	It has been said that music has a healing effect.

Examples:

- On a large scale, this has been demonstrated by renowned musicians such as Luciano Pavarotti, David Bowie, and Bono.
- It must be catching on, because centers have been constructed around the world, and music therapy programs are constantly being added to university course lists.
- More patients are being referred to music therapists by physicians, psychologists, and occupational therapists.
- This exciting new career path is being chosen by increasing numbers of music lovers who wish to share their passion with those who need it most.

